SOUNDS GOOD FEATURED ON FOX NEWS 25
Segments Showcase Lifestyle Technology Integration Expertise

WALTHAM, MA (February 28, 2005) – Sounds Good Corporation, a Boston-area lifestyle technology integration company, today announced it has been interviewed by Fox News Channel 25.

The two-part “how-to” series, reported by Bianca Dela Garza, aired in February and featured the topics: “How To Hang A Plasma TV” and “How To Install Surround Sound.”

Sounds Good co-founders, Robin McCune and Gregory Brett, led the instructional news segments, explaining step-by-step procedures for proper planning and installation. Also revealed were the many challenges that home owners often encounter in do-it-yourself scenarios such as running wires, finding studs and mounting speakers.

From simple flat panel installation to customized whole house audio visual design, Sounds Good delivers complete lifestyle technology integration. Sounds Good helps guide customers through home theatre purchasing decisions and provides prompt, reliable, professional certified installation and set-up, as much training needed to feel comfortable with new technology, and on-demand support for the lifetime of the customer’s system.
